Pink Lingerie Pretty But Far From Practical—How to Manage the Petticoat Problem in Summer—Princess Slips Made With Deep Flounce—Sachets and Covers—A Folding Ironing Board—Drawer Compartments Very Convenient—Planked Steak, Materials and Utensils Needed and Directions for Cooking—Napkin Rings of Paper for Camping Use.

PINK LINGERIE.

Pink lingerie is being worn this summer, but it is far from practical. For it washes in streaks and spots unless carefully laundered, and even then often needs retinting. White is more satisfactory. In patterns the butterfly medallion is the prevailing favorite and is very effective. The fit of the undergarment governs the fit and therefore the appearance of the upper garments and dress so it should be chosen carefully. In the combination suits those with a drawing ribbon at the waist rather than a merely fitted-in waistline are preferable. By making use of the drawing ribbon the garment may be made to blouse as the dress waist does.

Few women seem to know how to manage the petticoat problem which the tight skirts and sheer fabric dresses of the summer present. Two white petticoats should be worn with the thin day dresses. The upper one may be as lacy and elaborate as one wishes, but the under one is property of light weight satin, quite plain, save for two self-pleatings on the edge.

To allow freedom in walking, tennis playing and the general outdoor demands for swift, free motion, this undershirt is slit at the side. Last year the fashion for under petticoats provided that they should be made of cotton poplin and not silk. They were very hot and awkward. The sateen petticoats are a natural great improvement. Some may be had without the pleating, slit on the side and scalloped and buttonholed edged.

Princess slips are made with a deep flounce put on almost straight. This flounce is slit in the center of the front for some eight inches. Ribbons are used for shoulder straps instead of the lace straps of last year. Ribbon straps, in fact, are used this season with all the lingerie designed for evening wear.

SACHETS AND COVERS.

The newest sachets to tack among the lingerie and to give a delicate scent to the household linens are made in the form of tiny pillows. These pillows are made of linen or lawn and filled with lavender, rose leaves or clover blossoms. The covers for these sachet pillows are miniature pillow slips, opened at one end, and finished with narrow lace or hemstitched. They can readily be slipped off and laundered, and so solve the problem of keeping the sachets fresh and clean. A set of these tiny pillow slips intended for clover bloom sachets had a little clover motif embroidered on them.

Some of those seen in the shops covering lavender pillows have "lender" worked in mercerized floss across the pillow case.

At this time of year, when roses and clover blossoms are at hand, it would be an easy and agreeable task to prepare these sachets for the linen closet. This suggestion might offer an idea for Christmas giving, thus eliminating some of the hurry at that season of the year.

A FOLDING IRONING BOARD.

An iron is of little use unless there is an ironing board to go with it. There is one. It is small, and folds into a dainty crotone case, in which there is also an iron holder. And the best of this compact little board is that it costs only a dollar. It is only a foot and three inches long.

when it is opened to full length, but almost any wrinkle can be pressed out on a board of that size, and shirt-waists and handkerchiefs can easily be ironed on it.

DRAWER COMPARTMENTS.

Old-fashioned bureaus and dressing tables used to have a supply of small drawers or else had the large top drawers subdivided into convenient little compartments suitable as receptacles for gloves, handkerchiefs and other such small accessories which are easily lost or mixed up. The modern girl is expected to keep a supply of fancy crotone covered boxes on top of her dresser to hold these articles, but as such boxes soon soil or become overcrowded, it has remained for somebody to invent a detachable wooden framework, bottomless and lidless, which may be covered with crotone and laid in the drawer.

A home-made contrivance on the same order may be manufactured at home by means of a number of shallow cigar boxes or even strong pasteboard boxes of a uniform size stitched or tacked firmly together and covered with crotone. If cigar boxes are used, they must be thoroughly aired and scented to remove the fragrant aroma which, while pleasant, is hardly suitable as a sachet for a lady's toilet accessories. Such a set of boxes, however, will make a nice gift for a man to hold ties, handkerchiefs and trinkets.

If the framework is manufactured at home, it should measure not more than eighteen inches long by twelve wide, and the compartments can be gauged by what they are intended to hold.

PLANKED STEAK.

Material—Porterhouse steak or shad or hakefish, eggs, onion, 3 1/2 pounds, mashed potatoes, 3 pints, tomatoes, 2; peas, 1 can; lemon, 1-2; parsley.

Utensils—18-inch plank, potato ricer, two steppars vegetable knife, pastry bag and tube.

Directions—Select a porterhouse steak at least 1 1/4 inches thick and the given weight. Wipe this with a cloth wrung out of cold water and remove any extra fat. Peel and boil sufficient potatoes to make the required amount, three pints when mashed and seasoned. Put the steak into the broiler or pan, broil it from seven to ten minutes. In the meantime the plank should be in the oven heating and the potatoes done, mashed and seasoned by the time the steak is ready. Butter the plank, lay on the partly cooked steak, and with the pastry bag filled with potatoes, arrange a border, close to the edge of the plank, of potato rosettes. Put this into a hot oven and finish cooking the steak and browning the potatoes. While this is being done, cook and season the peas and broil halves of small tomatoes. Remove the plank when the steak is done and put around it at equal distances the tomatoes and peas, and on the top of the steak pour over melted butter, season with salt, paprika, a good table sauce and finely chopped parsley, and garnish with strips of pimientos. Sauté mushroom caps are very nice on the top. The tomatoes or green peppers may be stuffed if preferred. Vegetables should be in reserve dishes, for extra serving. This will serve four people. When the plank is new, clean and oil thoroughly. Place in a very moderate oven

HENRY RULE DIES.

Pocatello, Ida., July 17.—Henry Rule, aged 73 years, died yesterday at the general hospital. His son, Joseph Rule of Idaho, was in the city and made arrangements for the funeral, which was held this morning at 11 o'clock.

STRIKERS RESORT TO EXPLOSIVES

Fort Smith, Ark., July 17.—Union miners and sympathizers numbering several hundred destroyed nearly everything at the three mines of the Mammoth Vein Coal company at Prairie Creek, twenty-five miles east of here, and engaged a force of non-union employees in a battle that waged from 6 o'clock until noon. Dynamite and fire were used to destroy the structures. The loss is placed at $250,000.

The most remarkable incident in connection with the clash, the result of a strike of union employees, is that no one was killed and that only four persons were slightly injured.

The battle came to an end when the employees exhausted their supply of ammunition.

The first attack was made on mine No. 1, where a tangle and smaller buildings were burned. Then an attack was made at mine No. 3, where a tangle and company houses were set afire and the machinery and mouth of the mine shaft dynamited.

The attacking force next moved to mine No. 4, the only plant that was guarded and operating. The employees were lodged behind a barricade, while the attacking force took refuge in the timbers and rocks on the edge of ridges in nearby hills. The long distance at which the fight was waged prevented any fatalities.

During the battle the farmhouse and bunkhouses a quarter of a mile from the plant were set on fire. When the employees took flight, after their ammunition became exhausted, the attacking force set fire to sixteen coal cars, the tangle and smaller buildings.

The trouble is the climax to a strike called in mine No. 1 last April, when the company inaugurated the open shop policy.

Prior to the opening of hostilities today, all telephone wires in the strike district were cut and the women and children in the danger zone were removed to safety.

Later tonight local company officials expressed concern for several mine guards who had not reported. Search parties will be sent out early tomorrow. All of the other company employees are accounted for.

Telephonic communication with the mines was restored tonight.

MUCH INTEREST IN THE KNIGHT PROCESS

The Park City Mills, which is the official title of the new custom mill company at Park City, has placed an order for a 100-ton roaster with the Knight-Christensen Metallurgical company.

Manager G. H. Seibird, who returned yesterday from Provo, said: "The roaster is being made at the Provo Foundry & Machine shop. It will be the first roaster of this type manufactured since the perfection of the original machine at Silver City, and will embody all the improvements made by the inventor on the original design."

"The patterns for the grate had been made when I visited the shop and the castings were to be made this week. Work is being pushed along as fast as possible in our plant early next month. Everything else about the mill is completed."

"The interest manifested in all quarters in our enterprise is extremely gratifying. In the last week

NAU AUG MINE IS TO HAVE MILL

Morris P. Kirk, president of the Nau Aug Idaho Mines company, who is back from a two weeks' inspection tour that included both the property in which he is directly interested and others upon which he was, as an expert mining engineer, asked to pass, said yesterday that the Nau Aug would, as soon as possible, install a thirty-five-ton mill to handle the low-grade ores.

There is in the property, which has been worked for many years and formerly yielded fortunes, a big tonnage of low-grade silver-lead that can be handled at a good profit if a mill be installed. Development of the high-grade ore which will average $70 per ton, is proceeding with satisfactory results, and a new hoist is being installed in the shaft below the hoist shipments from the property will be resumed.

The Nau Aug, which comprises some claims, is favorably located, being only twelve miles northwest of Hailey. President Kirk made his two weeks' trip by auto, being accompanied by Vice President K. C. Woolley and John H. Blee, former superintendent of the Aurora Consolidated, who is now in charge of work at Nau Aug.

Mr. Kirk said that he enjoyed the outing and the excellent fishing afforded by the Idaho streams as much as he did the favorable indications of his mining property. He reports considerable activity in the gold district of Pine, sixty miles west of Hailey, but did not make a detailed examination there.

WATER CASE IS SETTLED.

Pocatello, Ida., July 17.—After a legal battle of a year's standing and one which has cost several days of the present session of the district court, the jury returned a verdict yesterday in favor of Jesse S. Richards of Virginia, this county, in his suit against the Portneuf-Marsh Valley Irrigation company for failure to supply water according to contract on Richards' Downey tract. This suit was a test case, as more than a dozen farmers have similar grievances. Richards asked for judgment of $9200 and was awarded by the jury damages to the extent of $6640. Mr. Richards was represented by his father, Attorney C. C. Richards of Ogden, and Jesse S. Budge of Pocatello. The company was represented by Attorney Carl Pain and Edwin Snow of Boise, and the case was heard by Judge Stevens, sitting for Judge Budge.

BURIED TREASURE IS THE SUBJECT OF SUIT

Price, Utah, July 17.—A rather peculiar case is on trial in the district court today, wherein Florian Gardner is suing John Storich and others for the recovery of $580. The plaintiff, an Austrian living at Sunnyside, having that amount in his possession, and being afraid of banks, took it out and buried it. The rains and the floods came, and washed the plant out. It was discovered by some children, who took part of the money home to their mother. The woman recovered the rest of it. When Gardner discovered his loss and found out who had discovered his wealth, he promptly replevined the money, and the struggle for its possession is now on.

MRS. AGNES O'NEIL BURIED.

Midway, Utah, July 17.—Funeral services for Mrs. Agnes O'Neill, 68 years of age, who died Thursday, were held in the First ward chapel here today. Almost the entire community was in attendance. "Grandma" O'Neill, as she was known, having been loved by everyone. The speakers were William L. Lindsay, H. T. Coleman, J. B. Wilson and Bishop Jacob Probst. Music was furnished by the ward choir. Mrs. O'Neill was a native of Lower Ireland, where she was born January 28, 1828. While yet an infant she was taken by her parents to Glasgow, Scotland, from where she came to Utah in 1864, along with her husband, John O'Neill, to whom she was married in her native land in 1847. Mrs. O'Neill was the mother of thirty-

Route No. 3, Box 67, Little Falls, Minn.

"Our little boy was taken sick with a fever and after the fever he broke out with a sore eruption all over his body. We could get nothing to help him. The sores were large and red and bleeding. We had him all tied up with bandages and then we had to soak them off every day."

"We bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment which soon gave him relief. We used the Cuticura Soap to wash him with and used the Ointment afterwards and in about two weeks he was able to sit up. Now he is as well as can be in three weeks he was all healed by the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) George Wolcott, Jan. 29, 1914.
